

To whom it may concern,

Why does the FCC continue to make attacks on free speech and assault our first ammendments right? The XM radio controversy is ridiculous and petty. With XM radio I have experianced a whole new side of radio free from commercials and it is really up to date on information. Not only does it help with the weather and traffic it also provides information about current affairs and for people who have long rides to work they can listen to talk radio and not have to worry about dropping signal or changing the station. XM also provides a whole variety of stations of music that normal stations won't play because they would come under attack from the FCC. People are more opened minded and don't have to worry about bleeping any foul or offensive language. I have been enjoying XM radio now for 2 months and it is the greatest thing since sliced bread. It would be a shame for it to end up like Howard Stern. Keep XM radio alive because it may open areas to other markets and will give people hours of enjoyment.
